LANDKEY

Established in the region for over 75 years, Pearce Homes take pride in their commitment to providing homes of quality and style in superb locations, and are pleased to introduce an exciting new development in rural North Devon.

Landkey Parish nestles perfectly in the rolling North Devon countryside. It is a village which remains largely unspoilt and retains much of the character of a rural country community.

Originally a Saxon farming area, Landkey became a parish in its own right during the 12th Century. The church, an attractive building, entirely late 15th Century, except for the chancel which was rebuilt in 1870, is dedicated to St Paul.

Landkey is also quite famous for its Mazzard fruit which was discovered by local farmers in the early 1900s. Landkey Parish Council has rescued Mazzard trees from the brink of extinction. The sweet cherry was once common in North Devon, but had almost died out when the parish council won a grant to pave the way for creating a new orchard as part of a wider Millennium Green project.

Landkey itself offers a village hall, shop, church, primary school and local pub. Although a rural location, Landkey is ideally situated, being only 3 miles from North Devon's regional centre of Barnstaple. Barnstaple offers a wide range of facilities with its local and high street shops, train and bus stations, theatre and leisure facilities.

The sandy beaches of Saunton, Croyde, Putsborough and Woolacombe are within easy motoring distance, as is the dramatic and picturesque North Devon Coastline. North Devon has become the 12th location to be selected as a World Surfing Reserve.

The south west coastal path is easily accessible and Exmoor National Park is on the doorstep offering hiking, horse riding and amazing scenery.

You can join the Tarka Trail and experience the journey taken by the otter that inspired Henry Williamson's much-loved novel 'Tarka the Otter.'
